ACS Board Members Earn Silver Bell Award

ASHEBORO - Members of the Asheboro City Board of Education attended the North Carolina School Boards Association (NCSBA) District 5 Meeting in Forsyth County on Wednesday, September 20, 2017. Board members received professional development and training via several breakout sessions that were offered.

While at the meeting, the Asheboro City Board of Education was presented with a 2017 NCSBA Silver Bell Award. The Silver Bell Award recognizes boards where every member has actively worked towards meeting their 12 hours of training during the July 1 through June 30 timeframe. Chairman Kyle Lamb accepted the award on behalf of the board.

The Silver Bell Award reflects that school board members commitment to training excellence for the 2016-2017 NCSBA Academy Year of the NCSBA's Academy of School Boardsmanship. In addition to the award presentation, Board members received legislative and NCSBA updates. Various professional development breakout sessions were also available.

The Asheboro City Board of Education will have the opportunity to showcase their award at their next regularly-scheduled meeting on Thursday, October 5 at 7:30 pm at the Professional Development Center, located on the campus of Asheboro High School.
