Asheboro Zoo School FFA Medals in FFA Competition

ASHEBORO – Asheboro High School Zoo School FFA members competed in the Guil-Rand Federation Career Development events on Tuesday, March 14. The Parliamentary Procedure team placed first, and Destiney Houghtalen placed first in the Prepared Public Speaking event. These members will now move on to represent the Asheboro Zoo FFA Chapter and Federation at the West Central Region competition in April.

The Asheboro High School Zoo School, a partnership between Asheboro City Schools and the North Carolina Zoological Park, provides a diverse learning environment for students and many unique opportunities for problem-solving with college and career relevant applications. The school is located at the North Carolina Zoo.

Students use the hands-on learning skills to identify and investigate global environmental issues and learn to work independently and cooperatively in teams.
